DETAILED ACTION

Specification

1. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means", "comprises" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

2. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: on page 1, line 10, the tile BACKGROUND OF THE INVENTION is misspelled.

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

4. Claims 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Johnson et al. (4,446,634). Johnson '634 discloses an airflow adjusting device of an air cushion shoe comprising: an air cushion body (elastomeric bladder 18) having a buffer portion, an air inlet (conduit 24) connected to the buffer portion and air outlet (conduit 22) connected to the buffer portion; wherein when the buffer portion is impacted, the buffer portion will be compressed and thus induce an elastic force to have a buffer effect; when the buffer portion is compressed, air in the buffer portion will be drained out from the air outlet; when the compressing force disappears, the buffer portion will restore and air is sucked from the air inlet; and an adjusting device including an adjusting seat (first valve 26) and an adjusting button (knob 30) on the adjusting seat; and a stopper (adjustment shaft 28) being formed on the adjusting button for changing air flow rate of the air flowing out of the air outlet so as to change the elasticity of the buffer portion as the adjusting button is actuated. See Figures 1-6 embodiment and column 2, lines 51-57.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Art Unit: 3728

7. Claim 3 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Johnson '634 in view of Tawney et al. (Pub. No. US 2002/0139471). Johnson '634 as described above discloses all the limitations of the claims except for where the lateral side of the sole is formed with a transparent window portion. Tawney discloses that it is desirable to provide transparent window in the sole of the footwear to make the bladder visible from outside. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide a transparent window portion to the sole of Johnson '634 as taught by Tawney to make the bladder visible from outside.

Allowable Subject Matter

8. Claim 2 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

9. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Shown are shoes analogous to applicant's instant invention.

10. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Jila M. Mohandesi whose telephone number is (571) 272-4558. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday-Friday 7:30-4:00 (EST).
